

What does 3 days of downtime mean to your business?

Emergency Incident Response Service

Understanding your cyber risk profile and building a responsible security posture is top-of-mind with businesses today. Likewise, it's crucial for organizations to develop a sound incident response plan if cyber attack occurs. Having a trusted partner to help guide you during a security incident is the first step to mitigating costly breaches and/or downtime. Additionally, a rapid response ensures your organization can mitigate the overall impact of a security incident.

Cybersecurity Services from Eagle Technologies Powered by Kudelski Security

Our Incident Response Retainer Service will provide your organization immediate access to experts 24x7x365, with the skills and experience necessary to effectively assess, contain, and remediate security incidents. We leverage our extensive global security operations capabilities to provide context and insight into various indicators of compromise, adversaries' tools and tactics, large-scale campaigns, log and event data, potential insider threats, and in-depth malware analysis. This gives our specialized incident responders a big picture view to quickly, effectively, and thoroughly handle potential security incidents on your behalf.
